MUDA to build Peripheral Ring Road

DPR proposal sent to Government for approval, says MUDA Commissioner

Dinesh Kumar

Mysuru, Nov. 23 (RK&BCT)- Tenders to prepare a Detailed Project Report (DPR) for the Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) will be floated soon after the approval comes from the Urban Development Department.

"We have sent the DPR proposal 'Peripheral Ring Road City Development Plan - 22' to the Government and the approval will be accorded in a week or 10 days. Tenders will be called soon," Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) Commissioner G.T. Dinesh Kumar told Star of Mysore this morning.

Though MUDA has reserved Rs. 5 crore in the Budget for the DPR preparation, the project did not take off so far. Now with the MUDA submitting a proposal to the Urban Development Department, the project has gained traction.

Considering the exponential growth of Mysuru city in the next 25 to 30 years, the MUDA has come up with an ambitious plan of constructing a Peripheral Ring Road covering most of the city outskirts to connect the present Outer Ring Road that has been built to decongest the city.

45-metre-wide, 73.25 km road

The PRR is a 45-metre-wide road estimated to run for 73.25 kms (up to 120 km) and requires a total area of 824 acres of land for formation of road and MUDA has a proposal to acquire 750 metres on either side of the PRR for Town Planning Scheme which is 27,500 acres of total area. There will be six main lanes and four lanes for service road.

The present 42.5-km long six-lane Ring Road connects the Bengaluru-Mysuru Highway, KRS Road, Hunsur Highway, Bogadi Road, H.D. Kote Road, Nanjangud Road, T. Narasipur Road, Bannur Road and Mahadevapura Road.

The Peripheral Ring Road will involve land acquisition on the Mysuru-Bengaluru 10-lane Expressway, agricultural lands on Mysuru-Bannur Road, Mosambayanahalli Road, Dyavalapura Road, Mysuru-Ooty Road, Kadakola-Jayapura Road, Mysuru-Manandavadi Road, KHB Private Layout Road, Jnana Ganga Layout, Ballahalli Layout, Huyilalu-Yelwal Road, Nagawala-Yelwal Road and Yelwal-Paschimavahini Road.

Land acquisition and road formation

When developed, the Peripheral Ring Road is set to pave the way for inclusion of nearly 40 semi-urbanised villages on the outskirts of Mysuru. According to the proposal sent to the Urban Development Department, the entire project requires huge capital outlays towards land acquisition and road formation costs adding up to an estimated cost of Rs. 1,971 crore.

"Our Superintending Engineers and Executive Engineers are making several rounds of the Urban Development Department and now we have been able to submit the DPR proposal. Tenders will be floated once the approval comes. The DPR-making task will be handed over to bidders who have experience in preparing similar reports for projects including the ones like the Bengaluru-Mysuru Infrastructure Corridor (BMIC)," Dinesh Kumar added.

Meeting Nitin Gadkari

It may be recalled here that Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari, who was in Mysuru recently on a personal visit, had asked MUDA officials to submit the DPR so that it can be included under the Bharatmala Pariyojana (India Garland Project) Phase-2.

Nitin Gadkari was apprised of the Project by Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha and other officials. Later, the MP also submitted a memorandum to Mysuru District Minister S.T. Somashekar urging him to direct MUDA to commission the DPR on Peripheral Ring Road by setting aside Rs. 10 crore.

Rape of minor: Accused gets 43-year jail term

Mysuru, Nov. 23 (BCT)- The POCSO (Protection of Children from Sexual Offences) Special Fast Track Court-1 in Mysuru, constituted to hear rape cases of minors, has this morning sentenced an accused to 43-year rigorous imprisonment for violating a minor at a farmhouse.

The Court has also imposed a fine of Rs. 55,000 on the accused and has directed the Government to provide a compensation of Rs. 7 lakh and Rs. 25,000 of the fine amount to the victim. The remaining fine amount has to be deposited with the Government.

The incident occurred in September last year at a farmhouse in Halekempaiahnahundi village near T. Narasipur where a poverty-stricken migrant family, with a 10-year-old girl and a little boy, had come from Shivamogga to the farmhouse to work.

The accused Nazim, working at a horse stable in the farmhouse, violated the young girl, stated the girl's mother in her complaint. The mother had stated that the accused repeatedly violated her daughter and threatened the girl not to reveal the crime to anyone. According to the girl's mother, she came to know about the rape on 15.9.2021.

Based on the complaint and with the cooperation of the farmhouse manager, the Women's Police Station sleuths from Mysuru Rural Women's Police Station arrested the accused from Bihar and had booked him under the POCSO Act.

Inspector K. Jeevan had investigated the case and submitted the chargesheet to the Court. Hearing the case, the Special Fast Track Court-1, Additional District and Sessions Judge Shayma Khamroz found the accused guilty of raping, threatening and assaulting the little girl and pronounced the verdict sentencing him. Special Public Prosecutor K.B. Jayanthi argued for the State.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Life is a roller coaster ride and never a sail on a placid lake. It is a whirlpool of experiences throwing surprises and setbacks at unexpected junctures. Everything seems hunky dory for a family, drawing envy from others. An unexpected financial loss may plunge the family into the darkness of despair where, at times, the extreme path is taken, as an easy way out of the situation.

Yet, at times, it may be a blow to the health and no amount of wealth can save a life, if it was intended to be cut short. One should never forget that it is always the Almighty's plan, named destiny. We have all heard of the phrase, "man proposes and God disposes."

Not always He bestows as per the proposal and the proposer is left writhing in agony that his prayers failed to work. But the shastras stipulate that all that is happening in our lives is our karma at work. If you have sown good seeds then you reap happiness and vice-versa. The individual has no way of knowing his burden of past karma or debts that he has to pay off in this life. His only duty is to perform good deeds with no expectation of fruits.

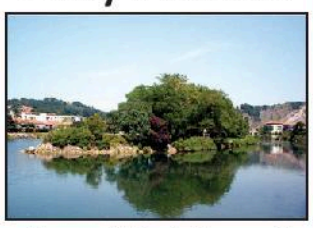
Patch of land that changes country every 6 months



Pheasant Island: Pheasant Island is a tiny island on the border between Spain and France that alternates ownership status between the two countries every six months.

Located on the Bidasoa River, the natural border between Spain and France, Pheasant Island is a deserted patch of land with a rather fascinating history and political status. It might not look like much today, but hundreds of years ago it was where the Thirty Years' War between Spain and France finally ended. The two countries sent a couple of their most important dignitaries to the island to negotiate, with their respective armies gathered on both sides of the Bidasoa, in case things went wrong. 11 years and 24 summits later, a deal was struck, and Pheasant Island became the world's smallest condominium, under the joint sovereignty of the two nations.

But in 2005, Tang decided to invest a sizeable portion of his money into a completely new industry and things started going horribly wrong for him. Now at 52, the former millionaire finds himself over 6 million dollars in debt, but he is working hard to repay every single cent by selling grilled sausages on the street."We are born with nothing. Why be scared of starting all over again?" Tang said.

Devotees face hardship at Nanjangud temple

Sir,

On 16th November 2022, in the wake of 'Karthika Masa,' the Nanjangud temple witnessed a huge crowd at 12 noon. After more than an hour in the queue, the devotees' exit from the temple complex after darshan was complicated by the inadept authorities.

The "Mukhya Dhwara" from where devotees enter and exit the temple was closed and the exit was routed through the queue line in which the devotees are allowed to have free darshan.

The devotees were annoyed and inconvenienced to stand in queue for longer duration even during exit. They were also deprived of "Nanjundeshwara Laddu Prasada" as the counter was closed when the devotees came out of the temple.

I reported the same to the staff of the temple administration as the Executive Officer wasn't available then. When the staff showed helplessness, I contacted the Temple's Executive Officer Jagadish over his mobile, who said he was out of station on some official work.

However, I continued to explain the raw deal being faced by thousands of devotees. But the Officer's response was discouraging and unprofessional, without acknowledging the lapses on the administration's part.

In his confession, he also claimed that about 100 pilgrims have called him since morning, implying that plethora of lapses exist in crowd management and general administration. Add to this, his callous reply to wait until the Prasada counter reopens after 4 pm.

The higher authorities are requested to act over the issue and facilitate smooth darshan of the deity for devotees in an orderly manner.

Siddharamaiah appeals Brahmin community to drop protests

Bengaluru, Nov. 23 (GA&DM)- In a bid to diffuse the situation that has arisen following the insulting remarks made by his close associate P. Mallesh against Brahmin community at 'Siddharamaiah-75' book release programme at Mysuru last week, Opposition Leader and former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah has appealed the community to stop the ongoing protests and demonstrations in the State.

Karnataka Brahmana Mahasabha President and former Advocate-General Ashok Haranahalli (right) called on Siddharamaiah at the latter's residence in Bengaluru yesterday.

Karnataka Brahmana Mahasabha President and former Advocate-General Ashok Haranahalli called on Siddharamaiah at the latter's residence here yesterday. During the meeting, Siddharamaiah is said to have told Ashok Haranahalli that though he was present at the book release programme at Mysuru, he did not hear what P. Mallesh had said. But still it was wrong on the part of Mallesh to have made such remarks against Brahmin community.

"P. Mallesh has expressed regret about the remarks he had made against Brahmin community at the event. As such, the matter should not be pursued anymore and the Brahmin community should end the protests and demonstrations. As regards myself, I have never made any insulting or abusive remarks against any community. I once again appeal the Brahmana Mahasabha and other community organisations to put an end to the protests at this point itself," Siddharamaiah said in a video record of the meeting he had with Ashok Haranahalli.

Devanur Lake to be rejuvenated shortly

Mysuru, Nov. 23 (RK&DM)- The Devanur Lake in the city outskirts will soon undergo rejuvenation, with MUDA all set to carry out works. The MUDA is rejuvenating the lake at a cost of Rs. 5 crore, which it had earmarked in its 2022-23 budget. The works include de-silting, removal of weeds, cleaning of bunds, laying a pipeline for discharge of sewage water and setting up of a STP (Sewage Treatment Plant).

In a bid to restore the lake to its pristine form, the MUDA will carry out a survey to find out encroachments and mark them for evacuation.

The Technical bid for executing the works has been sent for approval and the works will commence once it is approved by the authorities. The lake, which extends over 12.37 acre area, has been encroached upon by some people and several houses have come up illegally on both sides of the lake along with approach roads and civic amenities. With complaints of encroachment, MUDA has ordered a survey for identifying and marking the encroachments, which will be evacuated after due process.

Urging for clearing all encroachment of the lake area, BJP leaders Giridhar, Sandeshswamy and other party workers arrived at the lake for staging a protest, when MUDA officials led by Commissioner G.T. Dinesh Kumar and accompanied by MP Pratap Simha visited the spot for an inspection. Following an assurance that the encroachments will be cleared soon, the protest plan was dropped.

MUDA Superintending Engineer (SE) Channakeshava, Special Land Acquisition Officer Vishnuvardhan Reddy, Assistant Executive Engineers (AEEs) Shivanna and Rajashekar were present.

'Khata within seven days of property registration'

Bengaluru, Nov. 23 (KMS&BCT)- As a real estate-friendly initiative, a Government Order has been issued to issue Khata within seven days of property registration. Earlier, it would take up to 34 days for the issuance of Khata after a property is registered in Karnataka.

R. Ashoka

Revenue Minister R. Ashoka told reporters in Bengaluru yesterday that earlier, people used to make the rounds of Sub-Registrar's offices for the Khata document after they have registered their properties. This used to lead to corruption and the complexities of the procedure.

"We have eliminated this totally now and the Khata will be issued within 7 days of property registration," he said. On land conversion, the Minister said that the Government will introduce a Bill in Belagavi Assembly Session next month that allows agricultural land to be converted for non-agricultural use in just 3 days. "This will prevent citizens from running pillar to post and keep middlemen out," Ashoka said.

Another Bill to give on lease to farmers Government land on which they are carrying out unauthorised cultivation will be introduced. "In Hassan, Kodagu, Chikkamagaluru and other places, agriculture is being done on Government land that extends up to one lakh hectares. This is leading to friction with officials and criminal cases are being registered against farmers. To put an end to this, farmers will get land on a 30-year lease," the Minister said.

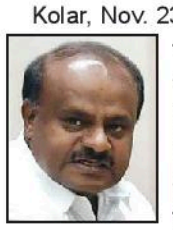
The Government plans to use this land to find a solution to the perennial problem of 'Bagair Hukum,' which refers to unauthorised cultivation on Government land. This is most prevalent in districts such as Mysuru, Kodagu, Chamarajanagar, Shivamogga, Chikkamagaluru and Uttara Kannada, he noted.

"Coffee, cardamom and other crops are grown in such land. Land will be given to the encroachers on a 30-year lease basis. Of the encroached lands, 80% of cases involve plots measuring less than five acres," he explained.

Ashoka said that the yearly lease amount will be fixed. "All these years, the encroachers have enjoyed possession of the land without paying anything to the Government. Going forward, they have to pay the lease. This will help identify that the encroached land belongs to the Government," he added.

JD(S) open to make a Muslim as Chief Minister: HDK

Kolar, Nov. 23- JD(S) Legislature Party Leader and former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) said that the party was open for making a Muslim leader as the Chief Minister if the JD(S) comes to power on its own in the forthcoming Assembly polls.



Kumaraswamy

Speaking to reporters after his village stay at Kyalanur in Kolar taluk yesterday, Kumaraswamy said that the party State President C.M. Ibrahim had recently said that he could become the CM if Kumaraswamy shifts to national politics. Such talks can take place only in the JD(S), he maintained.

Asserting that Muslims too are an integrated part of our society and they are also Kannadigas as well, Kumaraswamy opined that there is nothing wrong in making a candidate from the minority community as the Chief Minister.

Arguing that the matter is not about giving an opportunity to a person, the JD(S) leader said resolving the problems of communities is more important.

Continuing, Kumaraswamy said his party was ready to make a Dalit and a woman as the Deputy Chief Minister if the party is voted to power with full majority.

He further said that he had not announced this just for bagging the votes of Dalit and other oppressed communities.

Seniors allowed to walk inside Manasagangothri campus

Mysuru, Nov. 23 (MTY&BCT)- The University of Mysore has relaxed restrictions permitting senior citizens to enter the vast campus of Manasagangothri for morning and evening walks.

Following the murder of retired Intelligence Bureau (IB) Officer R.N. Kulkarni in Manasagangothri campus on the evening of Nov. 4, the University banned entry of walkers, joggers and also public vehicles into the campus. The ban was enforced at an emergency Syndicate meeting on Nov. 5.

Though the Syndicate resolved to ban entry of all public vehicles and outsiders to the campus fearing that entry of unknown persons who may cause problems including illegal activities, senior citizens had objected to the move as it curtailed their freedom to walk inside a lung space.

The seniors had argued that only the area of crime could be cordoned off instead of barricading the entire campus of more than 700 acres and contended that the University has taken the step either due to bureaucratic high-handedness or lack of wisdom. A group of senior citizens even staged a protest in front of the University main gate on Nov. 12.

After several rounds of talks and representations to the University, it has now been decided to open the gates only to the walking senior citizens both in the morning and evening.

However, the University will continue to restrict the entry of public and other vehicles. Only students, faculty, research scholars, academicians and administrative staff are being allowed after they produce valid identity cards.

Security guards at Paduvarahalli side of the University entrance, Bogadi Road side, SJCE side and B.N. Bahadur Institute of Management Studies side are strictly implementing the rule.

Meanwhile, walking on the Kukkarahalli Lake area and its bund is open now. It was banned earlier as the Lake was full to its brim and there were leaking points at a couple of places. Now that the leakage has stopped with the reduction of water level, it is safe to walk, said the University authorities. However, the Lake is only open for walking. Couples and students entering the Lake in pairs are being discouraged.

Unified presentation of Vilamba & Visual Treat

Nithyashri Shetty

Chinmayee Bharadwaj

Pranathi Bharadwaj, Gandharvika Shastri, G. Prateeksha and M.A. Anisha.

Every year on Children's Day, Raasavrunda of Mysuru pays rich tributes to all its Gurus. Vid. Y.N. Simha, Dr. Venkatalakshamma, Vid. Lalita Dorai and Pandit Teerathram Sharma Azad are the teachers who have played major role in shaping Vidu. Nandini Eswer. With their blessings, Raasavrunda is passing on the rich tradition of many dance forms to deserving pupils. This year too, the 'Guru Vandana' was held on the 14th of November at Veene Seshanna Bhavana.

Raasavrunda has carved a niche for itself with its uncompromising adherence to tradition. They always display simple and meaningful costume and a presentation that reaches the audience effectively. In fact, they are the hallmark of Raasavrunda. Natuvanga was held by Vid. Rohitha Eswer, son and disciple of Vidu. Nandini Eswer for this concert. Young Nityashree and Mahima Kashyap were new introduction to vocal. Vid. H.L. Shivashankaraswamy was on mridanga and Vid. Thandavamurthy on violin.

The distinguished feature of this 'Guru Vandana' was the selection of vilambakaala for almost all the items that were presented (except Alaripu and Thillana). It was indeed a challenge for the dancers to fill up the gap and yet hold the audience. The fact that Varna, Daru, Padam and Ashtapadi which were all in slow tempo held the audience glued to their seats itself speaks volume of the success of this programme. Hats off to Chinmayee Bharadwaj and Nithyashri Shetty, the senior students for their brilliant performance.

Kundanika

'Kalaitookki', a Tamil composition in praise of Nataraja, Lord of Dance, was an apt selection for the opening. Chinmayee was perfect in both nritya and abhinaya. After Alaripu (Misrachapu) by the young dancers, a Jathiswara in the raga Chakravaka by Ponniah Pillai was presented by M.A. Anisha and Pranathi Bharadwaj. They both successfully erected a tapestry of rhythms. The padavarna was literally a visual treat. We hardly get to see 'Viriboni', the famous Bhairaviatataala varna in a dance recital. But Nandini Eswer's obsession for it made her compose dance for this composition. Nithyashri and Chinmayee breathed life into it with their energetic and effortless performance. They provided dance substance, with elan and competence. Daru is yet another rare item we see in a dance recital. Normally singer's favourite Daru is Muthiah Bhagavatar's 'Maathe Malayadhwaje' in Khamach. But Rohitha had chosen not so common Daru of the same composer in the raga Karnataka Kapi. The attractive choreography by Nandini Eswer came alive in Chinmayee and Nithyashri's performance. Perfect understanding and harmony between them stood out in this piece. Chinmayee in her presentation of Padam (Yadukulakambodi-Subbarama Iyer) 'Thamarasaaksha' displayed matured abhinaya as sakhi, who conveys the virahavasthe of the nayika to Lord Rajagopala, the after effects of his arrival.

'Saavirahetavadeena', an ashtapadi of Jayadeva too had the same theme. But, the immersed Nithyashri brought out Radha's anguish and passion alive as an intimate friend. The young dancers in a lively thillana (Ramnad Shrinivasa Iyengar-Raga-Faras) brought the curtain down. The co-operation of the singers and instrumentalist must be mentioned. Kudos to Vid. Rohitha Eswer and Vidu. Nandini Eswer for their utmost care in grooming the young dancers.

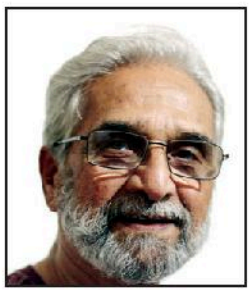
Spotted Owlet: The less seen but more heard night bird

The Owls are an Enigma. Feared and Fascinated both. They are Revered and also Despised. A sort of mixed feeling, all because of a lack of understanding of the Fascinating Birds of Prey, The Night Hunter, and the Indian Spotted Owlet. Here we publish a write-up on Spotted Owlet (Athene Brama) by Ragoo Rao, Ethologist, to create awareness on the marvellous creatures of nature and a little concern towards them. Now read on...



Athene Brama ...the Wise One.

Athene, in the Greek language, means the Goddess of Wisdom and a Protector of Human Settlements, and Brama from our mythology means Bhrama Deva, the Wise Sage. Hence, the Taxonomical name given to the Indian Spotted Owlet is Athena Brama. Considered the Vahana of Goddess Lakshmi, the Spotted Owlets are the most highly adaptive birds among all Owls, to survive the onslaught of habitat degradation and also habitat changeover, successfully leading their Nature Ordained way of life in urban human habitations and also in the countryside in its natural habitat.

Owls being mostly nocturnal hunters spend their day in a heavily canopied tree perch, safely concealing themselves while sleeping during the day hours. Some species of Owls burrow in the soil like rodents and spend the day underground.

Our Little Spotted Owlet, no bigger than a big Pigeon, is crepuscular (at dusk) and nocturnal. In urban areas, the Spotted Owlets roost in the daytime in well-covered small trees or if they get a chance in the wall crevices of old buildings, tree cavities and seepage vents in the large storm water drains.

Spotted Owlets, wait for dusk, and then come out of their day-roosts and hunt the streets and fields for rodents. They are frequently seen on electric cables or poles calling from perch with their peculiar calls 'chirurrr-chirurrr' or a 'cheevak, cheevak' given repeatedly in a crescendo. Spotted Owlets in fact are very vocal and have been observed to use at least thirteen different vocalisations.

The owl's signal call — used by adult males and females to mark and defend territory, and by males delivering food to females — is a series of four hooted notes, with the middle two closest together. The hoots have a deep, pure tone, with females' voices higher than males. To stay in contact, mated pairs also emit a hollow whistling sound that rises in pitch at the end. Fledglings use a similar high-pitched whistle to beg for food.

Apart from vocalisation and different calls, the Spotted Owlets have a well-developed body language too. Having wonderful eyesight, and with the advantage of having their eyes almost straight looking like a human face has, the Owlets are bestowed with both monocular and binocular vision and use it so efficiently to pinpoint the source of the sound or sight. Owls use their eyes also as a threatening arsenal. When they discover they are being stared at, they blow up their eyes full and start bobbing their heads.

Spotted Owlets are so well accustomed to human presence and have learnt the art of living unnoticed in their niche of life. If fact they are so well accustomed to evading our sighting of them, that they remain noiseless in the daytime, only fluttering away to a distant perch in a nearby tree, if intruded upon accidentally by any human. Watching an Owlet, tucked in a crevice or a hollow tree cavity, without creating eye contact with them is very amusing. They appear like CCTV cameras, scanning the surroundings for all happenings.

There is a pair of day-roosting regularly, in a tree cavity right on the busy Kalidasa Road of Mysuru. Only a few people have noticed it and they do not spread the word, lest the 'Good Luck' bestowing Owls desert the place. It is considered a Good Omen to sight an Owlet.

Spotted Owlets are highly sociable with their own kind. They are frequently sighted in their day roost, in good numbers. Three, four and even five of them have been sighted to have a common day roost cavity or a high perching leafy tree canopy. When disturbed or threatened by their roost, the Owlets fly away scattering themselves in different directions, to confuse the pursuer.

They have a strategy. Flying away in different directions and perch in trees or other tall structures and keep a watch on the happening, occasionally giving out a high-pitched gurgling call. They locate each other through these calls. Later when the coast is clear and they feel safe, they give out a different low-pitched call and they all reciprocate with their answering calls. Finally, when the disturbance is clear, they all one-by-one fly back in a swift short flight and enter the roost cavity. This is a fascinating way the Owls communicate with each other. The Owlets do have a well-developed vocal and body language communication system.

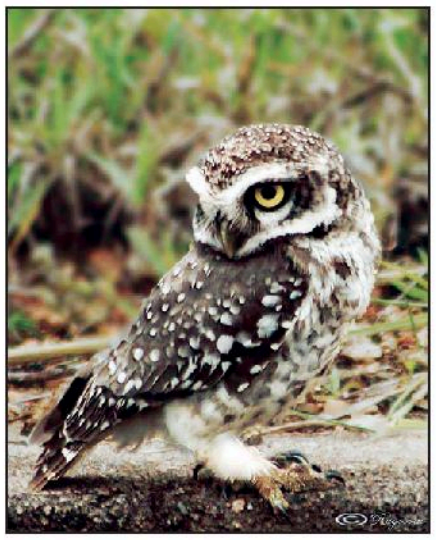
Owls have always been fascinating and fearsome. In Hindu mythology, they are considered the Vahana of Goddess Lakshmi, the Goddess of Wealth. It is considered a good omen to sight an Owl when you are on a business errand or venture. Superstitious people even keep a picture of the Owl to have a darshan every day when they start their business. Ironically, the same Owls are despised and chased away when they are seen in their compounds on their roofs. The truth is that Owls are only another species of birds, which are highly evolved as night hunters and gifted by nature with fine-tuned vision and hearing.

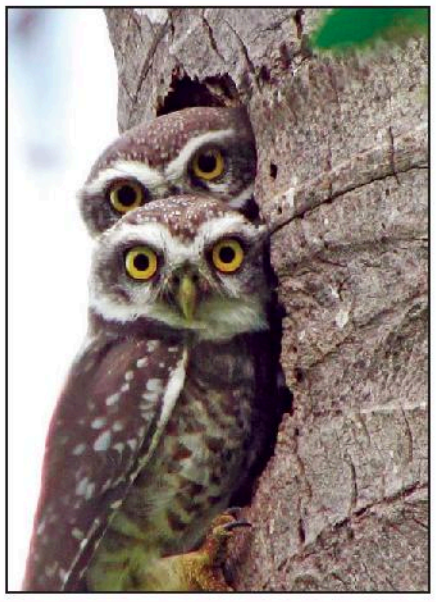
Spotted Owlets bind pairs and build nests in tree cavities or niches in a ruined wall. They lay from four to six eggs and both parents take equal responsibility to raise the brood and teach their young fledglings the survival art.

Spotted Owlets, being hunters of rodents, help humans in keeping the rodent infestation in check. Their particular liking for large beetles and locusts, help the farmers in pest control.

The Spotted Owlets, occupy their own niche in the ecosystem and should be respected and left alone. They should be protected also.

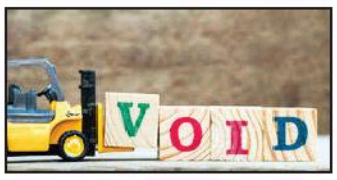
According to the IUCN (International Union for Conservation of Nature) Red List, the total Spotted Owl population size is around 15,000 mature individuals. Currently, this species is classified as Near Threatened (NT) on the IUCN Red List and its numbers, today are decreasing▪





WORD OF THE DAY

Nugatory



Pronunciation: NOO-guh-tor-ee.
Meaning: Something described as nugatory is of little or no consequence. Nugatory is also used especially in legal contexts to describe something without operative legal effect.
Origin: Just because nugatory isn't the most common word in the English language doesn't mean it's trifling. Rather, nugatory is literally trifling because the two words are synonymous, as in "comments too nugatory to merit attention." Nugatory first appeared in English in the 17th century; it comes from the Latin adjective nugatorius, which can mean not only "trifling" or "frivolous" but also "futile." This sense carried over into English as well, and so in some contexts nugatory means "ineffective" or "having no force," as when Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist Marilynne Robinson invoked "the nugatory value of the contemporary penny." Nugatory may mean little to some, but we think it's worth a pretty penny.
Example:"Elsewhere [on Death Cab for Cutie's latest album], [Ben Gibbard] ... continues his apparent affinity for writing songs about driving on 'Wheat Like Waves' and the gorgeously golden 'Rand McNally,' named after the now nugatory road atlas books." — Madeline Roth

PHRASE OF THE DAY

As nice as ninepence

Meaning: Neat, tidy, well-ordered.
Origin: The variants, 'as right as ninepence' and 'as neat as ninepence' are just as common as the 'nice' version (also, less commonly, 'as clean as ninepence' and 'as grand as ninepence') and it isn't clear which came first. There are suggestions that this expression derives from 'as nice as ninepins'. In the game of Ninepins (Skittles) the pins are set out in a square. For the game to be fair this must be done neatly and accurately or, in the old parlance, nicely. That derivation is attractive but seems unlikely, as there is no early records of 'as nice as ninepins' in print, which we might expect if the 'ninepence' version derived from it. The 'ninepins' form, in the guise of 'as smart as ninepins' isn't found until the 20th century, so it is reasonable to assume that it is a simple mishearing of the earlier 'as neat/clean/grand as ninepence' versions. The earliest known recorded form of the phrase is 'as neat as ninepence'; the first citation is in James Howell's English Proverbs, 1659: "As fine as fippence, as neat as nine pence."
